MEALS AT CONFERENCE

In line with the focus of Conference, the Conference planning group are in discussion with The Hayes about providing meals as far as possible according to LOAF principles (Locally sourced, Organically produced, Animal friendly, Fairly traded). How far this can be done will depend on what is available within a reasonable budget. A meat option will be given at the Saturday evening meal only; this will probably be lamb as this is the most likely to be locally reared and free range. All other meals will be vegetarian (including dairy and eggs), and responsibly sourced fish may be an option. As usual, The Hayes will do their best to accommodate any other dietary needs; please state these on your booking form.

A packed lunch can be provided for those leaving early on Sunday. See booking form.

Our Daily Bread: Food Security, People and Planet

Hayes Conference Centre - Swanwick - Derbyshire
16 - 18 July 2010

Our Daily Bread: Food Security, People and Planet

Food is so essential a part of our lives that the “breaking of bread” with others celebrates love, mutuality and the gifts of the natural world. Yet the global food system upon which we depend is increasingly fragile. One in six people in the world goes hungry, low-income groups have trouble accessing nutritious food and justice is denied to many of the world’s food producers. The conference will explore the food system and exciting new initiatives to help us reconnect to sustainable agriculture and food, and highlight insights into ‘our daily bread’ offered by our faith and worship.

SPEAKERS

Shay Cullen is an Irish Columban priest, based in the Philippines. Nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize three times for his human rights work with the Preda Foundation in Olongapo, he began Preda Fair Trade in 1975, benefiting farmers co-operatives and indigenous people. He writes a weekly column in The Universe Catholic newspaper.

Elizabeth Dowler is professor of food and social policy in the Department of Sociology at Warwick University, specialising in links between food and poverty, and a director of the Food Ethics Council which works to make the food system fairer and healthier. She is a member of the Iona Community.

Alastair McIntosh is based in Glasgow, working in the field of human ecology. He specialises in the fullness of community, understanding this to be a triune dynamic of ‘soil, soul and society’, of which food is a part. A prolific writer, he contributes regularly to BBC Radio Scotland’s ‘Thought for the Day’.

Vandana Shiva is an award-winning Indian ecologist and vice-president of Slow Food International. She is the founder of Navdanya (nine seeds), promoting diversity and use of native seeds, and has contributed fundamentally to challenging corporate led global strategies in agriculture, food and water. Her books and articles uphold the rights of small farmers, particularly women, and support campaigns challenging food patenting and the development of genetically-engineered crops.

A ‘Big Food Debate’ on the Saturday evening will be chaired by John Vidal, the Guardian’s Environment Editor.

JUST FAIR

Agencies will be displaying goods and resources, and information and ideas about practical action can be obtained at the “Just Fair” marketplace.

CHILDREN AND YOUNG PEOPLE

Children and young people are a vital part of the NJPN conference. There will be a crèche for children under 5 and a specially designed Y-KIDS Programme for 5 to 11 year olds. 12 to 18 year olds will have their own programme, exploring the conference theme in an active and thought provoking weekend.

NJPN is committed to the protection of children, young people and vulnerable people. People of all ages and ethnic origins are welcome & encouraged to attend conference.

ACCOMMODATION

The Hayes Centre is a Christian residential conference centre in the Derbyshire countryside a few miles from the M1. (see www.cct.org.uk)

There is access and some en-suite rooms for the less physically able.

Standard accommodation is available for families and those who are prepared to share a room. The majority of the family rooms are en-suite and available at standard rate.

While the cost for adults has increased slightly this year, in line with Hayes charges, we have absorbed some of the increased costs for young people to help families to attend. (There are some bursaries available for young people.)

Child and Low Income rates are subsidised. We count on the generous donations of those who can afford a little extra to make these possible.
